

THE RELATIONSHIP COMPATIBILITY CONTINUUM

- When we over-give, we equally match with someone who over-takes.
- When we have no boundaries and fear enforcing them, we equally match with someone who enjoys this deficit and thrives on over-stepping the boundaries of others.
- When we care for others at the expense of self, we equally attract someone who cares for self at the expense of others.
- When we don't include ourselves at all in our equation, we equally match with someone who is the only one included in their equation.
- The closer we move towards healthy "balance", the less we allow or tolerate dysfunctional behavior from our mates.
- We will naturally attract and match with someone who is equally as close to emotionally healthy as we are.